Re: Docket No. OOP-1211/CPI

Dear Ms. Henney,

I am writing to ask that all genetically engineered foods be labeled.

I am quite concerned that foods that have been changed from their original state will slowly but surely bring ill health to humans, as they already are to the butterflies, for example.

The effects of tampering with what was created for our consumption is already beginning to cause health problems. The no. of people who are 'allergic' to corn and wheat grows everyday. I have no doubt that their sufferings are caused by their bodies being unable to process these genetically engineered foods, as corn and wheat are no longer in their natural, created form. They are like a foreign substance that have invaded the body, and the body reacts with the symptoms we label 'allergies', struggling to get them out.

Think about it. What food is more common, and have human beings been surviving on for centuries, more than grain? Don't you consider it strange that people are becoming allergic to wheat, and only in recent years since the DNA in wheat has been tampered with by man?

I believe the American public, and mankind the world over, should be given the choice whether they want to consume a product that may be bad for their health. Those of us who care about our health do not wish to consume genetically engineered foods, and it would be deceitful of our Government to place GE ingredients in foods behind our backs.

Again, please ensure that all genetically engineered foods are labeled.

Thank you,
